On May 27, history will repeat itself as the Park City Library will temporarily move back to the Miners Hospital, just as it did in the 1980s. Our Library will be going through a major transformation to become the Library of the next Century.

The renovated Library is expected to reopen in the Spring of 2015.

The historical structure will be protected and restored with only minor changes visible on the outside. Inside, however, will be a revolutionary update with books, e-books, gathering places, a coffee shop, technology suites that will include 3D printers, a digital media lab and business center complete with wi-fi, printers and meeting facilities.

Join us May 27, to learn all about the future and tour the Historic Miners Hospital.
